Man Saved Salvation at Open-Air Meeting—Visit of Staff-Captain and Mrs. Lewis—Six Seekers

"Oh Lord, help that man to come now." So prayed one of the ring of Salvationists as they knelt in the Saturday night open air in front of the Stratford City Hall. During the absence of the Band in St. Mary's, the members of the String Band who had been appointed to take special part, had been pleading with the unconverted among the large crowd gathered, to decide for Christ on the spot. One man, under conviction, had yielded his hand for prayer. "He is already here," said another commandant. "There was great rejoicing over the soul won in the open air."

In the meetings on Sunday, both outside and in, the playing of the String Band, and the speaking and singing of the visiting members proved of interest and blessing.

Sister Irene Byers of Toronto, Corps Cadet Clifford Kelly of London, and Sergeant-Major and Mrs. MacGregor (Dovercourt, Toronto, formerly of Stratford) were welcomed. The little talks given by Sister-Major MacGregor were of great blessing.

Monday being Labour Day, and crowds of people being in the city, two evening open air meetings, in which Major Byers, the Divisional Commander, took part. The visit of Staff-Captain and Mrs. Lewis was a splendid success in every way. On Friday night, following an interesting open air and street, the Staff-Captain gave to the large crowd gathered in the Citadel his splendid lecture entitled "India—its People and Problems." Major Byers took the chair, followed up the lecture by calling for young people willing to become missionaries to stand and three responded.

The Indian garb and speaking and singing of the missionary Officers throughout the week evoked great interest. In the open air and in the Holmea meeting much of God's blessing was felt, while the words of Mrs. Lewis to the children in the afternoon were listened to with rapt attention by even the smallest tots. The Staff-Captain's appeal on Sunday evening moved mightily the hearts of the people, his kneeling at the mercy seat, some for pardon and some to dedicate themselves to God for service.

MIMICO
Captain Bobbitt, Lieut. Peasey

Lieut. Colwell and Mrs. Macpherson were with us on Sunday, September 11th. We had routine meetings throughout the day. The Colwell's address Holmea was very impressive and helpful. At night, we had a real hot Salvation meeting. Mrs. Macpherson spoke on the influence of a godly mother. Many hearts were melted. As soon as the prayer meeting commenced we had the joy of seeing a backslider return.

Candidate A. Burton said farewell for the Training College. Harvest Festival is going with a swing. Our Officers are leading the way.

COBOURG
Adjutant and Mrs. Graves

We had a good week and, Sept. 10-11, with Commandant Campbell in charge. At night the two children of Young People's Sergeant Major Cowin were dedicated.

Brigadier Southall Leads on—Four Seekers—Open-air Converts

Brigadier Southall conducted stirring week end meetings, recently. Large crowds attended. He gave a most helpful and inspiring Holmea address. At night, when the invitation was given, four volunteered for the mercy seat. Large crowds attended the open air held during the Exhibition weeks and three men, pressed their way through the crowd and knelt at the drumhead. One man was once a well-to-do farmer—ult. He was very despondent, but started out with new hope on the Christian life. The other was from the open air.

Couldn't Leave the Hall Till He Got Saved

A good crowd was present at the Holmea meeting of Adjutant and Mrs. Bowering. After the close of the service a young man still remained in his seat with hand on heart on the back of the seat in front. When spoken to he said he could not leave the building until he got right with God, which he did. On Sunday night, Aug. 28th, six seekers were converted. On Tuesday night four and on Thursday two sought pardon. Two others who were sick and have since passed away, professed to get converted during visitation by the Officers.

LIVERPOOL
Captain Landon, Lieut. Brown

On Sunday, Aug. 28th, the Corps Officers conducted the farrowal service of Candidate followers who has left us for the Training College.

The Candidates, who for the past two years have been the Young People's Sergeant-Major in great command by all. We wish her every success. On Friday we had the joy of seeing a backslider return to God.

A Young People's weekly meeting has been organized.

Corps Cadets, Life-Saving Guards and Home League do Good Service.

We are advancing, attendance are increasing, great interest is taken, and best of all souls are being won for God.

The Corps Cadets Brigade, numbering six, is an enthusiastic branch of this Corps. On September 1, they had charge of the Open-Air and house meetings. This indeed was a great day for the Corps. The command was held by four seekers of the mercy seat.

On August 31, a birthday party was held under the auspices of the Home League. The command was held by four seekers of the mercy seat. The command was held by four seekers of the mercy seat.

The Guards have an interesting programme and the Home League served a dainty lunch. A good sum was realized for Corps expenses.

The Guards have been re-organized and under the leadership of Guard Leader Pyke are going in for great times. They recently went on a hike and had a splendid day.

Last week-end the meetings were greatly enjoyed. The Sunday night meeting was conducted by our Officers assisted by Captain Square-briggs. At the close of the prayer meeting the souls had been won for Christ.

IMMIGRATION ACTIVITIES

By BRIGADIER SOUTHALL

In the last issue of the "War Cry" an account was given of the operation for appendicitis on one of our party of domestic on the S. S. Canastota. The woman was making splendid progress in the Montreal Hospital and will reach Toronto in a few days.

The same boat brought some thirty-five British girls for domestic service. After being met at the station and welcomed to the place of their new life, the girls and Mrs. Weeks some pretty good huffing for a while. Most of them were placed in good situations however, and they will soon be at home.

We have welcomed Captain Florence Miller as an addition to the Immigration staff and she has been doing some service in assisting Adjutant and Mrs. Weeks.

In our week-end about forty domestic were received, also a few widows and children. During our other week-end we received boys from four to seven years of age, and also a few children of domestic women with their mothers.

The placing of domestic and children is so small job as will be judged by the numbers shown, but that is by no means the finish. They are followed up by the staff and reported on, so that some are allowed to feel they are left to go alone as best they can in a strange country.

Some pathetic incidents happen in connection with the children who are sent out to be placed in foster homes or adoption. A little girl six years old who arrived with the last party, said to Mrs. Weeks on the station platform in a quiet, sad way, "My mother is dead, my father is dead; are you going to be my mother?"

We had the sight of some of these children who touched the hearts of all who saw them. A few days ago—because they looked so sad, but because they were such a bright, happy lot and so full of spirit, they were taken away to their new homes. These good-hearted fellows said a reflection among themselves: "It is the children, which doubtless made the journey even more miserable."

We have been kept busy with our old business during the past few weeks; more and more people want to bring their families—especially women bringing their families—to the Hall, and also for our old friend, Adjutant Walker, at the Newmarket. The seasons may come and the seasons may go but Walker goes on forever. In all the long years he has been to the Hall, I don't think he has been away for a day.

Our conducted parties arrive weekly and some week-ends we have two parties, which makes things busy for the Hall, and also for our old friend, Adjutant Walker, at the Newmarket. The seasons may come and the seasons may go but Walker goes on forever. In all the long years he has been to the Hall, I don't think he has been away for a day.

On Sunday, September 11th, we had a visit from our New Chancellor, Commandant Ash, who was accompanied by Mrs. Ash. The Commandant was of great blessing to those present. The presence of the Commandant and Mrs. Ash at the opening meeting was much appreciated by the boys and girls. Following a good open air service, a very good singing of the hymns was given. A great blessing during the day was the singing of "Murmured Melody."

THE WAR CRUISE

A Glorious Commonplace!

By BRIGADIER SOUTHALL

WHY is it that public interest in Salvation Army Cadets never wanes? It asks a writer in the British "War Cry." Whether it be in Clayton or Colburn; in Toronto or Tokyo; in Melbourne or Stockholm; in Peking or New York; in Copenhagen or Prague; in Winnipeg or Wellington; in Cape Town or Kingston—or anywhere else—the recurring public welcome and commendations fail not to excite profound interest amongst the people in what has become a commonplace with us.

Enthusiastic Gathering
A huge crowd packed the Congress Hall, at Clapton, for the public welcome to the Cadets, and a great number had to be turned away for lack of accommodation. As enthusiastic as the public welcome, for there is ever was this gathering, for there is this peculiar characteristic in Cadets: a contagious joyousness. They have a "from the heart" way, and they spread it abroad wherever they come.

France and Switzerland were both represented, the latter notably by a sister who had come to this country eighteen months ago, though knowing very few words of English, that she might learn the language and itself to enter the Training Garrison.

Based on the basis of this weekly told story came a miniature whirlwind, and we understood something of the not easily restrained intensity which is building the republic of God's children. This young man from Prague was fiercely dynamic. But his native force is now all harnessed to the effort which he announced as "Czechoslovakia for Christ!"

Profound Impression
Other Cadets who spoke represented the Women's Social Work, Sweden (Commissioner Sower's son), the British Territory, and the German. The last-named created a profound impression by his remarkably simple and directly addressed address. In response to Commissioner Richards' rousing appeal a number of young men and women patriotically volunteered for God's service.

Unsettled testimonies from domestic visitors and others received by Mrs. Weeks would make an interminable list, but we have only space to cite an extract from a letter sent by a widow with three children. "We are very happy and comfortable, and thank you for all your kindnesses," she says.

A very warm letter which the Editor would term a "human document" came to hand recently from a widow with six children. She refers to the hard struggle for two years in the God Land and expresses her deep gratitude for the better conditions she has found in the new. Four of the children are doing well in situations and she is also working having two of the children with her. She cannot find words to express her thanks for all that has been done for her.

FOUR CANDIDATES

Say Farewell at Meeting Conducted by Colonel Martin in the St. John's Citadel

At St. John's I on a recent Sunday evening Colonel and Mrs. Martin conducted the farewell meeting of four candidates who were going to the Toronto Training Garrison. They were Sisters May and Ida Barber and Benjamin Bert Ellis and Bert Martin. Both the young women Candidates are daughters of Sergeant-Major Barber, one of Newfoundland's oldest Salvationists. Candidate Bert Martin is the youngest and only son of Colonel and Mrs. Martin. That the farwelling young people were held in high esteem by the St. John's folk was clearly demonstrated by the packed building.

The Colonel made reference to the farwelling Candidates making special mention of Candidate Ida Barber who had given seven years of loyal service to the Army as stenographer on Headquarters. He further ex-Sergeant-Major Pynn spoke on behalf of the Garrison, and then for the step his son Bert was taking of his own free will. Young People's of the Junior Corps, Staff-Captain Tilley also paid a high tribute to the Candidates, and wished them success. He was sorry to lose Candidate May Barber as a teacher.

Sergeant-Major Barber was glad that he not only had given four of his children for Officers, but that he had others to follow later. He held a warm tribute of thanks to Mrs. Barber for her untiring efforts to train the children for God's service. Mrs. Martin spoke very helpfully of her son. "We gave him to God as a child," she said, "and we have not withdrawn our consecration."

After each of the farwelling comrades had spoken the Colonel gave an impressive address that resulted in the Salvation of three souls.

On Monday night a farwell too was given by the Bandmen. Special songs, solos, addresses and selections were given.

The final goodbye was said at the railway station on Tuesday. Previous to the train leaving the Band played "I cannot leave the dear old Place" and "God be with you till we meet again in Toronto."

We wish the Young Cadets every success as they enter upon their new duties in Toronto.

thousand week-end meetings were conducted by Major Burrows, assisted by Staff-Captain Owen, Adjutant Major and the Moncton Band under Bandmaster Davidson. The Hall, which has been mostly deserted, was packed on Sunday night. Twenty seekers knelt at the mercy-seat. The townfolk were favourably impressed with the music of the Band.

On Sunday, September 11th, we had a visit from our New Chancellor, Commandant Ash, who was accompanied by Mrs. Ash. The Commandant was of great blessing to those present. BEGINNINGS IN DOMINICA

Many Victories During the First Six Weeks of Salvation Army Effort.

Adjutant Sarah Walker, a Jamaican Officer, gives an interesting account of the commencement of The Army's work on the island of Dominica, one of the West Indies group.

The Adjutant was chosen as pioneer Officer, and for the first two or three weeks she and her two assistants found it difficult to make headway because the people—as was not unusual in their island seclusion—knew nothing of The Army. By systematic visitation from house to house, as well as by prayer, victory was achieved to such an extent by the fourth week that The Army Hall became crowded night after night with people anxious to be helped and saved.

So wonderful was the power of God felt in the Meeting on the fourth Sunday night that the unconverted trembled in their seats, and the penitent form became in constant demand. The struggle did not conclude until after eleven o'clock.

In addition to visiting the people, Adjutant Walker set apart a certain time every Friday evening to meet in the Hall any who needed counsel or help. Many took advantage of this, and not a few problems were solved and possible difficulties averted. Each person who attended was prayed with.

A stoker from British Guiana approached the Adjutant in deep distress. He was on his way to America, but had been robbed of his clothes and money, and was stranded. He was prayed with and led to God, and helped to secure employment in the town. Becoming a Soldier, he later volunteered for Officership.

At the Adjutant's last Meeting before leaving for London, the Hall was packed to suffocation, and one of the leading men in the town knelt at the penitent-form.

Surprised, yet delighted, the Adjutant asked, "Do you realize what you have done?" To which he replied, "Yes, I am determined to put off doing wrong and get saved." He attended the Meeting next night and testified.

Speaking of the Adjutant's departure, the leading Dominican paper referred to the splendid work already accomplished by The Salvation Army.

An Interesting Collection

Mr. William Hooker, Editor of the "Tribune" and "Magazine," has just turned over to The Salvation Army a most curious assortment of articles. Mr. Hooker takes on every morning, and decided a year ago that everything he found on the street during the year would be given to The Salvation Army. Minor Underwood reports the following:

One five-dollar bill, two one-dollar bills, a 2-cent piece, a 1-cent piece, twelve matches, four or five pennies, one Canadian dime, one English penny, and one German 5-pennig piece.

In addition to this cash he found 199 marbles, fifteen rubber balls, one tin, eleven subway tickets, pieces of glass, ornaments, a Cuckoo clock, a button box, keys and odd pieces of jewelry, making a considerable quantity.—New York War Cry.

THE WAR CRY

The Call of Africa's Heathen

SURVEY OF PRESENT ACHIEVEMENTS AND OF OTHER FIELDS OPEN TO SALVATION ARMY WORK

NO chapter in missionary history is more full of astonishing evidences of the enlightening and transforming power of Christ than that which concerns The Army's work for the various tribes of Africa. The pioneer Officers in a very real sense carried their lives in their hands. Brutal and barbaric raids were made upon the 'white evangelists' and several fell victims to the hate inspired by native sorcerers and others.

Wonderful Transformation. Colonel Clark, Chief Secretary for Native Work, surveying the present standing of The Army and its future opportunities for spreading Salvation among these peoples, writes:—

"I have often stood, after an evening Meeting in the compounds of one of the East Coast groups, and gazed in admiration at the wonderful transformation that has taken place on what a few years ago was a vast stretch of uncultivated land. Now it is a veritable hive of industry, the lights from a dozen large gold mines flashing through the darkness and speaking of activity and industrial development unequalled before in this country."

But a much deeper feeling stirred my soul when, taking John Mubumba as Mount Plegah, I view the activities that have been called forth by the Spirit of God, through the concentrated labors of Salvation Army Officers and Soldiers.

"Look to the North and see the uprising of a mighty host, freeing itself from the shackles of heathen dom and inquiring, as the light is dawning upon them, what they must do. During the last few months over 320 adults have been sworn in as Salvation Army Soldiers, and in two Sections we have received twenty applications from natives for Officership. Several important centres call for the services of Europeans once a week for a service in his parlors! The Captain recently wired and, until her farewell, went to the house work after work."

Just before the fourth Meeting held in an old shed situated close to a straw stack. Running to the house, the Captain raised the alarm and joined the farm servants in forming a chain of bushes, thus bringing water from a pond to the seat of the outbreak. This proved to be a long and tiring task, so to help matters the Captain started singing an Army chorus, which was soon picked up by the other helpers, and before long the living water came bubbling forth, the echoes ring with their singing.

The subsequent arrival of the first brigade from a neighboring town quickly put matters right, and the Captain, before leaving to continue her visit, knelt with the farm hands to thank God for helping them and praying God's blessing on every person present.

Next morning she received a note of thanks from the farmers who wrote to say that he had heard her prayer on the previous day and was greatly helped and blessed by it. He then asked if she would meet his employees once a week for a service in his parlors! The Captain recently wired and, until her farewell, went to the house work after work."

OUR 'YOUNG SOLDIER' PAGE

THE COMPANY LESSON, SUNDAY OCT. 2. (Acts 9:31-42)

MEMORY TEXT FOR SENIOR COMPANIES.

"The fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance." Gal. 5: 22-23.

ONE day while Peter was staying at a little seaside town, preaching to the people about Jesus, a message came to him from Joppa, another town about five miles away.

"We are in great trouble in Joppa," said the messengers, for Dorcas, a good and holy woman, has just died, and we want you to come at once!"

Everyone in Joppa knew and loved Dorcas. She was kind and wise and helpful. She had a big heart, and used to clothe and care for children who had no one else to care for them. The messengers told Peter to go to the house where Dorcas had lived, and up to the room in which she had died. Many widows were there—poor, friendless women who had no one to love and help them—and they were all sobbing bitterly.

As soon as Peter came in they turned to him, and they showed him the garments which Dorcas had made for them with her own hands.

Everyone in Joppa knew and loved Dorcas. She was kind and wise and helpful. She had a big heart, and used to clothe and care for children who had no one else to care for them. The messengers told Peter to go to the house where Dorcas had lived, and up to the room in which she had died. Many widows were there—poor, friendless women who had no one to love and help them—and they were all sobbing bitterly.

As soon as Peter came in they turned to him, and they showed him the garments which Dorcas had made for them with her own hands.

GONE TO HEAVEN

Elna Hazel Mason—Ottawa

A little over two weeks after Junior Mason had put her ten cents in the birthday box she was called to leave this world. She was a member of the Corps Cadet Guard, and her death was a great loss to the Corps.

Serpt and Mrs. Mason were looking forward to a bright future as a Corps Cadet. But God's ways are not our ways, and after a short illness she passed away. The funeral was held on Monday, and the Corps Cadet Guard sang a beautiful song.

A Memorial Service was held on Sunday evening last by Adjutant and Mrs. Smith. The service was very beautiful, and the Corps Cadet Guard sang a beautiful song.

Life Saving Guards of the Corps Cadet Guard were very helpful in the service. The service was very beautiful, and the Corps Cadet Guard sang a beautiful song.

CAMPING OUT

An Experience That Was Much Enjoyed by the Montreal Life Saving Guards of the World

A number of Life Saving Guards of Montreal under the supervision of Brigadier and Mrs. Barry, recently spent two weeks under canvas on an island in Chamblé Bay, about sixteen miles from the city. Describing their experiences one of the number says:

"Fitting here and there through the sunshine are the beautiful yellow wild canaries so familiar to the Canadian country districts, above the blue sky flecked with the white and light of fleecy clouds; to the right and left of us the rushing waters of the Richelieu River busily hurrying on to empty themselves into the Gulf of St. Lawrence in bright and clear waves for the sunbeams which gleam from the open air where our seek a refreshing breeze."

"What will our dinner-time bring us today? Will we have stew, fish, or sausage? Will it be accompanied by rice or potatoes, pudding or stewed fruit? It all as one of the number says: 'We are very hungry when we welcome each other every meal. When the whole morsel for us to live up before our teeth, dishes in hand (for each girl eats for and washes her own dishes) we shall be ready and glad to be as hearty as ever as we stand in our places in the line, but, alas, and tables we have not, but we find ample accommodation on the ground for both purposes. The lots of fun too!"

So Very Short

"Are we having a good time? Well I guess! The only trouble is we can't stay longer. Two weeks is so very short and so soon we shall have to go back to the smoke and dirt of the city. On how we long for the freedom of the country, how good it feels to lie down at night, heedless, springing of mattresses, close to Mother Earth, tired out with the day's whirlsome fun such as we have in a Guards' Camp."

"Oh yes, we work too, for there is wood to be found and carried for the cook's fire, there are the pots and pans to clean, and the lanterns that light us to bed at night with their cheery, sturdy glimmer. There is water to carry from the well, so kindly drop by the Scouts who were here before us. But these are only little things which take but a few minutes out of the hours from 8:30 a.m. 'Riseville' to 10 p.m. 'Lights Out.' Everyone does her share and 'many hands make light work.' Then there are wild flowers, hares, harts, memory tasks, physical exercises, signalling and first aid, and of course, singing and talking."

"Were you ever at a Life Saving Guard Camp? I have been standing back in the shadows and watch the bonnie sun-burned faces in the low glow of the fire. They are all so earnest to the event songs and merry laughter as they spontaneously hurry forth from happy hearts and glad lips on the still evening air? If not, you have missed a thrilling experience. Did you ever stand around the Flag Staff taking part in Flag Raising in the bright, clear, morning air? Or Flag Lowering while the soft rays of evening sun shed a halo around the circle and hear the stirring, patriotic strains of 'God save the King' while the Flag is raised or lowered? Or did you ever listen to the Devotional Hymn sung by sweet, girlish voices? If so you will feel very much interested in the Camp, and its many physical but spiritual joys."

THE SALVATIONISTS' MECCA

WHERE OFFICERS AND COMRADES FROM ALL PARTS OF THE CANADA EAST TERRITORY WILL MEET AND PARTICIPATE IN SEASONS OF BLESSING AND INSPIRATION DURING THE ANNUAL CONGRESS

KNOWN to hundreds of thousands of people from one end of Canada to the other, and to other thousands now beyond the sea, as a great centre of Salvation, the Toronto Temple comes in these days into fresh prominence, for here will be seen hosts of Salvationists of all ranks who are visiting the city for the Congress.

The structure seen above includes, as is known, not only the Temple

but also the Headquarters for the Territory, and its many ramifications are bewildering to many. Time was when there was room enough and to spare, but so rapidly has the Army grown of recent years, and so many are the demands for increased space that one of the problems always having to be faced is that of room for needed extensions.

Many of the Congress meetings will be altogether too large for the Temple, and for these the Massey Hall has been engaged, but not a corner of the building shown above but will have its throngs of interested visitors, and whether one thinks of the public meetings, the Officers' Councils, the smaller gatherings, or the score of other occasions associated with this great annual coming together of Salvationists, it is certain that the picture here given shows one of the most thought-of buildings in the Dominion so far as the next few days are concerned.

In the past God has graciously crowned the efforts of His people in this cause with wonderful blessing, and if the exercise of mighty faith, and hard work in fixing up the material side of things, have anything to do with it, the farewell Congress of Commissioner and Mrs. Richards is going to mark a new epoch in the history of the Army in Canada East.
